(PRWEB) December 16, 2009 --CFD trading company, IG Markets, has been awarded the highly prestigious title of 'Best CFD Provider' in the TheBull 'Stockies' Awards, for the second year running.

Key Facts: In addition to winning the 'Best CFD Provider', we were also named as a Finalist in the 'Best Forex Provider' award category. The Stockies is a poll run on the TheBull.com.au over a two-month period. During this time, investors and traders have the opportunity to vote for their favourite provider across various categories. The awards are unique, in that they allow those that use products and services within the investment industry to judge who the best online firms are to deal with in Australia.

Alexander Boag, General Manager at TheBull.com.au said, "Winning The Stockies is a vote of confidence from the wider public about the merits of an online broker".

The voting system acknowledges IG Markets' product appeal to investors, traders, clients and TheBull.com.au readers. "IG Markets has always had a strong focus on clients, and we do the research to meet their existing and changing needs. Winning two years in a row is a great achievement and we'll be doing everything we can to win the award next year and beyond. There's no room for complacency. We aim for excellence in pricing and other aspects of the business that our clients value most," said Mr Tamas Szabo, IG Markets Australia Chief Executive Officer.
