Singapore's number one CFD provider for customer service*, IG Markets, has cut the minimum spread on its most heavily traded currency pairs, which are now available from 1 pip. The EUR/GBP and GBP/USD pairs will add to already low spreads for other major forex pairs, of which AUD/USD, EUR/USD, and USD/JPY, are all available from just 1 pip.

The world's most traded market, forex is used to speculate on the strength of one currency against another. Not only do IG Markets' clients benefit from tight spreads on forex, but also a pro-level real-time charting package and both simple and complex order types. IG Markets also offers Forex Focus, a twice daily forex market analysis which makes a thorough examination of moves in the AUD/USD, EUR/USD, GBP/USD and USD/JPY, while IG Markets clients trading forex in high volume receive automatic commission rebates.

Peter McDermott, Managing Director of IG Markets in Singapore, says "we are delighted to have cut our minimum spreads on our most popular major forex pairs. As part of our commitment to improve our clients' trading experience, we also offer low trading spreads on over 7,000 global share CFDs and low dealing spreads on our stock index CFDs, with share commissions as low as 0.1%."

"We are excited to reduce the minimum spread on this product, which reflects our commitment to keeping our rates low while maintaining our trademark excellence in client service. When forex spreads in an underlying market are narrow, we pass this on to our clients with our tightest possible spreads."

IG Markets passes the benefits of low forex spreads in the market onto its clients, offering clients the lowest possible spreads while maintaining caps on maximum spreads.

A CFD (or Contract for Difference) is a contract to exchange the change in price of an asset between the times at which the agreement is opened and closed. IG Markets offers CFDs on a variety of financial instruments, including indices, shares, options, forex trading and commodities.
